Mother Is Special

A MOTHER IS SPECIAL
By Frances Paulette

A mother is special, there's no denying - -
When you've given up, she'll keep on trying.
A mom won't say, "It can't be done - -"
She'll try, succeed, and call it fun!

She's the laundress, chauffer, maid and cook.
And still finds the time to read you a book.
It's amazing what a mom can cram in a day - - -
So many jobs but not much pay!

A mother is special; Sunday's her day - -
Let her know in some little way
Tell her you love her - doesn't matter how -
Just tell her she's special, tell her now!

How many times have you heard the old saying, "God couldn't be everywhere, so he made mothers"?

All through the ages motherhood has been extolled in music, literature and art, and with good reason.

The love of a mother is like sunshine to a child's existence, say leading psychologists; the joy of a child who feels loved, in turn brings happiness to a loving mother.

As a loving mother cares for her child from infancy through the teen years, she imports to that child a sense of its worth. No matter how successful a person becomes in later life, these achievements can never substitute for the early affirmation of love.

The years go by, we establish a life-style that is uniquely our own, but it is always there - - the influence of a mother. She not only taught us to be strong but she was a living example of strength in action.

So many times it would have been so easy for her to have clutched us to her bosom in a protective gesture, but knowing that we needed to grow strong and independent, she gave us a push and was pleased when we were strong enough to stand on our own.

In her busy day she took the time to share the beauty of a leaf, a flower, a sunset. The art of joy - - - it was her specialty.

The loving mother tenderly draws out the qualities that make her child a unique personality. She is quick to express appreciation for the little things her children do that please and encourage her. She is happy with each little success, no matter how small.

When the hard times come, she is there, maybe not always approving, but loving, understanding and offering strength.

Young, old, pretty, not-quite-so-pretty, plain or fancy, inside they are the same. They are special, they are our mothers. Praise God for them!.

Honor them while they are living, won't you?

Dr. William L. Trimyer, Pamplin, Co-Authors New Book "Colors Of The Mind"

Dr. William L. Trimyer, a native of Portsmouth, Va., and minister of Elon Baptist Church, Pamplin City, Va., has recently co-authored a new book entitled "Colors of the Mind." Dr. Trimyer along with Dr. Fred Skaggs of Mechanicsville, Va., spent two years in writing this devotional resource book for both lay persons and clergy.

The book is an outgrowth of many "gutsy," soul-wrenching experiences which the authors have had as persons and as professionals. Chapter headings include discussions on excitement, discouragement, depressions, loneliness, fear, death, pain and suffering, worry, and joy.

The book published by Skipworth Press of Richmond, Va., also includes penetrating prayers for facing some of life's critical experiences, and scripture quotations giving Biblical reference to these crisis areas of life.

John McLean, left, assistant principal of the Appomattox County High School, drew the winning ticket declaring Mr. C. G. Jamerson of 2016 Rose Lane, Lynchburg, to be the winner of the picture painted by Glenn Duff of Appomattox County High School. The ACHS Senior Class sold chances on the beautiful picture in order to help finance the senior trip.

The Senior Class would like to express their appreciation to all who bought tickets and supported them in this endeavor.
